The Mann House was organized in 1971 by a group of concerned citizens to give the structure of a home to male alcoholics. Over the years the Mann House has helped hundreds of men cross the threshold of recovery. Recently The Mann House was licensed as a certified recovery residence which reflects its role in the continuum of care for each resident.

The Mann House operates under the basic philosophy of rehabilitation for the chemically dependent person by stressing responsibility to himself as an individual as well as society at large. In addition, he is introduced and urged to practice the principles of AA.
